

Healthcare Waste Training and Engagement

Trusted Expertise

Providing the expertise needed to deliver trusted and compliant training solutions.

As recognised experts in healthcare waste management, we pride ourselves on offering simple and cost effective training programmes for the healthcare sector; from acute and community Trusts, to private hospitals, the ambulance service, dental surgeries and animal health. Having worked as waste managers within hospitals, our trainers understand the practical constraints of this environment and know how to communicate effectively with team members.

This hands-on experience is invaluable and sets us apart from those who believe that a 'one-size-fits-all' solution can meet the very diverse waste management needs of the healthcare sector. At Catalyst, our experts will work with you to design a flexible programme of training and communications to deliver real results.

“ Their knowledge and expertise together with their understanding of the Healthcare sector has been fundamental in helping us to improve

Flexible, blended learning

Working with you to design tailored training programmes to engage and inform.

Our flexible approach will focus on identifying practical and pragmatic solutions that deliver the right training to achieve your goals.

E-learning

Our e-learning training courses offer a focused and time-efficient way to deliver knowledge. However, that doesn't mean that your training has to be bland or generic. Our courses are designed in-house by our own team of waste experts and e-learning developers, allowing us to build bespoke on-line courses that accurately reflect your current processes and better engage your people.

Classroom

Traditional classroom training remains one of the best ways to deliver quality content that effectively informs and educates your teams. We offer a range of flexible options from 1 hour to 2-day sessions, all of which are delivered by recognised healthcare waste management experts who have an in-depth understanding of your sector.

Ward support

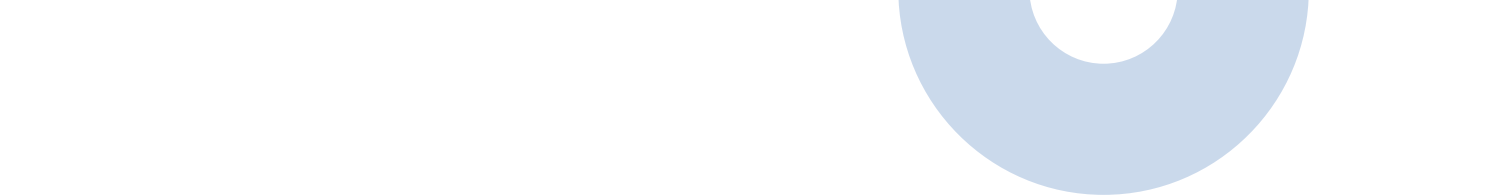

At Catalyst we recognise that sometimes the best training option is to focus on day-to-day support. For this reason we offer practical, on the job training for ward-level staff. By working with employees in their day-to-day environment, we can offer relevant and highly-specific guidance with minimal disruption to the working day.
